Practice Set Ups

Whether you are a practice adding a new equine vet to your team, or you're an equine vet venturing out on your own, EV Veterinary Products is the team to talk to. We have helped many equine practices and vets starting out on their own.

It is also important to look at the best deals for the larger capital items and EV has the knowledge to either source or direct a vet to the right place. Over the years technology has improved dramatically and is becoming more compact for the mobile veterinarian. Whether you are offering high quality videoendoscopy, laser treatment for URT work or portable focused shockwave therapy, these are things you can comfortably carry in the back of your car.

We also offer a full commissioning and service contract on the capital items we supply.

Financing a new venture can take time and getting the best deal possible is very important. EV works closely with a number of financial institutions and particularly lease purchase seems to be a popular route for a practice to take.

The EV team also has extensive knowledge of working with vets overseas and the sales team are regularly flying off to commission equipment and train customers.
